

TRIAL TRIP FROM TOPEKA HERE OF NEW OIL BURNING ENGINE

The Topeka State Journal speaks as follows of a new locomotive which was sent south from this city yesterday morning:

The Santa Fe is conducting a special engine trip from Topeka to Las Vegas for the purpose of testing a new engine built especially for the Santa Fe.

The engine, No. 917, is a new thing in engine building. It is constructed especially for the purpose of making steam by the use of oil in an oil burning engine.

This engine was constructed at the local shops, and is the only engine of its type in the world. The test is being watched with interest for if successful it will bring about a great change in the motive power of the Santa Fe. The local mechanical officials built the big engine, and John Purcell, superintendent of the local shops, superintended the construction work. The test is being made by means of the engine pulling a special train consisting of a car for the officials and a number of oil cars. The work will be closely watched during the entire trip.

The general plan in use on the engine is to use oil in compound engines, which can be done at a cost much less than where oil is burned directly as is the usual case in using oil for fuel. If the plan is successful it will be possible to reconstruct some of the old engines as double compound oil burners.

This trip which is now being made will be completed this afternoon. The trip will be one that will put the new engine at its greatest test for over that portion of the Santa Fe traversed by the trip, the hardest hills and grades of the entire system are encountered. The famous Glorieta and Raton ranges of mountains form one of the hardest pulls in America for there is a gradual slope for miles and miles.

RAILROAD NOTINGS—

Conductor George F. Moyer is back at work again, after a short siege of sickness.

Conductor Will C. Hurt, who has been at home on the sick list, has reported for duty again.

Leroy Helfrich, the Wells Fargo route agent, arrived here last evening from his headquarters in Trinidad. Brakeman H. M. Sweeney has come home from Dallas, whither he had been summoned on grievance matters.

Brakeman H. L. Starr, who gave a hypnotic performance at the opera house here, has reported for work on the road again.

Conductor James Purcell is now running passenger in place of Conductor A. H. West, who is far from being a well man.

Freight traffic through Las Vegas is now said to be heavier than for a year past, it consisting chiefly of the shipment of cattle and coal.

The May number of "The Earth," the Santa Fe's industrial magazine, is an Oklahoma number, giving a splendid presentation of the great opportunities for the homeseeker, investor and farmer in that state. Pictures of street scenes in Oklahoma City, Ardmore, Guthrie, and other cities, show graphically the wonderful strides of progress in the new state.

Brakeman A. H. Bell has been transferred here from Glorieta mountain on account of a shortage of men in Conductor Heitzler's crew. This is the first time he has been away from the mountain in two years.

Bridge Foreman B. P. Williams is at Morley with his construction train and men. They are building the Santa Fe depot at Morley and a neat cottage for the company's agent. The latter is nearly ready for plastering.

A. C. Ringland, district forester located in Albuquerque, has gone to the grand canyon of Arizona to inspect the proposed new trail the Santa Fe proposes to put down the wonderful gorge. The surveys for the trail have been completed and the Santa Fe company is ready to build the trail as soon as the consent of the government can be secured.

Burglars blew open the big safe in the Denver & Rio Grande station at Trinidad with nitro-glycerine and secured $330. The force of the explosion shattered the safe, tore the door from the hinges and blew it entirely across the room, partially wrecking the side of the building. The robbery was not discovered until the station agent unlocked the building. The police believe a professional gang of safe-crackers is at work in that section.

Al Moore, the railroad contractor of Newton, Kansas, has just closed a contract with the Santa Fe Railway company for the construction of 40 miles of road from Plainview to Lovett, Tex., which is the first work on the much talked about line to be built by that company to give it a shorter route between the Pacific coast and Galveston, enabling it to compete with the Southern Pacific on business to and from the latter point, and eventually to enter New Orleans.

Must Pay Full Postage.

The general public is under a misapprehension regarding the rule requiring the full prepayment of postage. The majority of the people are under the impression that if a letter has a two cent stamp on it the postmaster must dispatch it, the postmaster at the receiving office collecting the balance due. This is not so. Section 571, paragraph 2, reads as follows: "If any unpaid or insufficiently paid letter or other matter bears the card or address of the sender, or he be known to or can be conveniently ascertained by the postmaster, and is within the delivery of the office, the letter or package will at once be returned to him for proper postage."

Hoarseness, bronchitis and other throat troubles are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar as it soothes and heals the inflamed throat and bronchial tubes and the most obstinate cough disappears. Insist upon having the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar. O. G. Schaefer and Red Cross Drug Co.

A. L. Moyer who had been prospecting at Tucumcari for the past three weeks, returned to his home at Kansas City.

THRIFT A SIGN OF TIMIDITY

So States a Writer in English Journal and Makes Explanation.

Ordinary men, who have only the average capacity of ability and character, and no special temperament beyond the usual tendency of most of us to go wrong over common temptations, best serve society and their own interests on a basis of thrift, says a writer in the London Saturday Review. But thrift is essentially a sign of timidity that fears the small evils of life, and has no other than small means of protection against them. Thrifty people are Malthusians, and would keep down the population lest food supplies should be insufficient.

The English people have always been reckoned among the unthrifty people who spend more on themselves and their comforts and pleasures than those of other nations would do. They have multiplied recklessly; they do not spend their money to the best advantage, and they do not look ahead at home. But they swarm abroad and found incomparable colonies.

Even the Scotch, who have done their share of the work, only took it up after they had come into contact with the unthrifty English, and had lost some of the ludicrous penuriousness which marked them in their own country.

"Nothing venture nothing have" is the maxim of those who do great things. The thrifty do no great things; they are afraid of the risks, and their virtue is rather a passive than an active one. It is essentially feminine, not virile.

FAMOUS TOWN GONE FROM MAP

Ubet in Montana No Longer Recognized by Post Office Department.

The picturesque names of the early Montana are passing away, like the prospector and the cowboy, remarks the Great Falls Leader. The latest to pass is that of Ubet, erstwhile home of the Indian and the cowboy—the Mother Barrows, dispenser of true western hospitality. More than a quarter of a century ago, considerably more, it was that Ubet was located upon the map of northern Montana. Located in the Judith Gap, Ubet made a convenient half-way place from anywhere to anywhere, and the hotel, one saloon, one blacksmith shop, and in time one store, did a thriving business; investigation of the early history of Ubet would reveal a number of punctuation marks of .45 size, but no one thought the less of Ubet for that in the early time.

And now comes an order from the post office department that Ubet as an official handle wherewith to direct United States mail is no more from here the name of Ubet drops down and out of the government directory and the new town of Judith Gap takes the postal cards. True, Judith Gap is not a name to be sneezed at, but beside the name of Ubet it dwindles into the ordinary—very ordinary.

What's "White Coffee?"

Being a waiter in a Jewish restaurant where there weren't many folks who couldn't understand his native tongue, the man got along all right until he struck a party of two who were just investigating. By dint of pointing to things and taking chances the pair made a meal of it until they came to the coffee.

They didn't want small cups. When they pointed out coffee on the bill of fare they indicated with their hands large cups. But here the waiter was equipped with English, and he was bound to show it.

"Oh, yes, white coffee," he remarked. Which was the descriptive phrase for coffee with cream.

Putting Down Her Foot.

"Every time I give a party," cried the discouraged hostess, "I vow I'll never give another, but I've decided this time. No more for me. It's the red-cheeked man. I don't mind their taking up the rug and dancing at two after midnight and getting dispossessed notices served on me the next morning, or leaving punch glasses and cigarette ash all over the place for me to clean up, or scattering the Welsh rabbit from one end of the flat to the other, but when the red-cheeked man sits on my piano keys when he gives an imitation of something or somebody, and I have to pay four dollars to have my piano tuned the next day, that'll be about all."

Gringo Songs in '49.

In the gringo days, the days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49, amusements and recreations in California could only be found in the mining towns where a strolling singer made an appearance in some saloon, the admission fee paid by frequent visits to the bar. The words were set to well-known ballad tunes, and if the singer "caught on" he or she was rewarded by small nuggets thrown on the improvised table stage.

As the old record says, they were "sung with great applause," to which was added the landlord's warning call: "Come, gents, don't let the barkeeper go to sleep."—From Out West.

True Tale.

"My daughter gave us an awful scare the other day," said a caller recently. "She went away for a visit in New York. And she sent a telegram from her first stop. My wife was afraid to open it. We had visions of train wrecks, sudden illness and all sorts of things. And what do you think the message said? This: 'I forgot to tell you, don't eat up all the strawberry jam while I am gone.'"

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of

Wm. Parr—England's oldest man—married the third time at 120, worked in the fields till 132 and lived 20 years longer. People should be youthful at 80. For thirty years Kidney trouble made life a burden, but the first bottle of this wonderful medicine convinced me I had found the greatest cure on earth."
